AIA San Francisco | Academy of Art University Lecture Series continues...

An Evening with Laurie Hawkinson - November 4, 6:30 pm

Professor of Architecture with tenure at Columbia University, Laurie Hawkinson is currently the Director of the Advanced Studios at the GSAPP; and has served as visiting professor at SCI-Arc, Harvard University, Yale University, Parsons School of Design, and the University of Miami. Significant completed projects include the Corning Museum of Glass, the Wall Street Ferry Terminal and "Strategic Open Space" Public Realm Improvement Strategy for Lower Manhattan. Projects currently under construction include the new Land Ports of Entry at Champlain and Massena, New York and a new Emergency Medical Services building for the City of New York. Collaborative projects include the North Carolina Museum of Art Amphitheater and Site Master Plan, the Museum of Women's History and the NYC2012 Olympic Village.

An Evening with Lorcan O'Herlihy, FAIA - November 30, 6:30 pm

Since LOHA's inception in 1990, founder and principal Lorcan O'Herlihy has sought opportunities to engage the operative layers of the urban landscape with respect to spatial, sensory and experiential information. In 2004 the Architectural League of New York selected Lorcan O'Herlihy as one of the eight "emerging voices" in the United States. LOHA's commitment to design excellence in commercial, educational and residential projects has earned 44 national and international design awards, including 2010 AIA | LA Firm of the Year.

AIA San Francisco partners with the Consulate General of the Netherlands for Dutch Design Week SF Seeing Orange: Dutch Design Week SF presents the best of the Dutch creative industries in all areas of design, including architecture, fashion, industrial design and the graphic arts.

Deep Planning: Relational Models for the Sustainable City with Caroline Bos of UN Studio (1 LU)

November 17, 6:00 - 7:00 pm

AIA San Francisco is honored to host Caroline Bos in celebration of Seeing Orange: Dutch Design Week SF. Cofounder of UN Studio, an Amsterdam-based architecture firm known for its collaborative approach to design, Caroline will discuss the studio's Deep Planning methodology and illustrate how it is incorporated into some of its projects. Current projects are the restructuring of the station area of Arnhem, a shopping mall renovation in Kaohsiung, a masterplan for Basauri, a music theatre for Graz and the design and restructuring of the Harbor Ponte Parodi in Genoa. UNStudio has realized amongst others the Mercedes-Benz Museum in Stuttgart, a facade and interior renovation for the Galleria Department store in Seoul and a private villa in up-state New York.

Trend Forecasting Roundtable - November 18, 12:00 pm

AIA San Francisco welcomes Truus Dokter and Andrea Wiegeman of Dutch trend collective, Second Sight, and Marieke van der Poel and Tiila Abbitt of San Francisco based strategic trend consultancy, Proef. Together they will lead a collaborative discussion on consumer trends in the architecture community.

OPPORTUNITIES

- The Autodesk user research team is conducting a paid study (November 1 - 12) to learn about people who need access to AutoCAD or AutoCAD drawings when away from their primary workstation. The session will take about 90 minutes and you will receive a $150 VISA gift card if selected to participate in the study. If you are interested in participating, complete the following brief survey (should take less than 5 minutes) to see if you fit the study criteria: www.surveymonkey.com/s/TF2KDN8. For more information contact Eunice Chang, User Researcher at Autodesk, 415.547.2303, eunice.chang@autodesk.com.

GOOD Design Bay Area: Solving Six Urban Problems

By: Alissa Walker

Article first appeared on GOOD Magazine October 25, 2010

You know what they say about designers: They love solving problems. And in San Francisco, they love solving them so much that GOOD was invited back for a second event in which designers attempt to solve the city's problems.

After a successful GOOD Design SF in 2009, we were delighted to return for the second incarnation of GOOD Design Bay Area. Six design teams from the region were matched with government and urban leaders, who proposed six very different challenges. The designers were then given several weeks to come up with solutions, which they presented to more than 200 attendees. It was a fantastic night full of energetic questions, and was a fitting end to San Francisco's month-long, city-wide Architecture and the City festival.
